PHNOM PENH'S COMMUNITIES UNDER THREAT OF EVICTION

CURRENTLY OVER 12,000 FAMILIES ARE UNDER THREAT OF EVICTION IN PHNOM PENH

Spotlight On: Prek Takong 1 Community (Pictured above, STT, 2014). Located on the edges of the Boeung Tompun lake, families first settled at this site in 1986. This settlement was established as a cohesive community in 2006, through support of World Vision and by 2013, approximately 352 families lived there. In 2010, community members found out through hear-say that they may be evicted due to the construction of the Hun Sen Boulevard. Although the threat has not been formalized, families now live in fear of losing both their homes and their livelihood – already some of the fields cultivated by the community for vegetables are filled by the sand from the development company around their settlement.

Spotlight On: Samaki Rong Roeng, (pictured, STT, 2014) Settled in 1982, along the canal edge of Boeung Trabek sewage system, this settlement was established as a community in 2004 thanks to the support of the Urban Poor Development Fund (UPDF). The 352 families of the community received a formal written eviction notice in 2010 from the Khan level, with 10 days to evacuate, due to the development works linked to the Boeung Trabek canal improvement. After advocating and filing an official complaint to the Khan, the families remain there to this day. Yet in 2014, the local authority (Sangkat) numbered all the houses with spray-paint in what can only be further preparation for eviction.
