Office of the Ministry of Justice

FOREWORD

His Excellency Ang Vongvathana
Minister of Justice

The Royal Government, under the precious leadership of Samdech Akaek Mohasenabatey Techo Hun Sen, Prime Minister of the Kingdom of Cambodia, has been paying serious attention to dealing with the challenges of negative phenomena resulting in obstructions on the livelihood of citizens, in which the suppression of human trafficking and sexual exploitation is one of its major responsibilities.

Stemming from the attention and strong responsibility of the Royal Government to further strengthen the protection of the rights and freedoms of and seek justice for its citizens, the Ministry of Justice, as an arm of the Royal Government, endeavored to conduct studies and researches on the national and international provisions relating to human trafficking, in order to reform the law in conformity with the legal and judicial reform policy of the Royal Government.

Since “The Law on Suppression of Kidnapping, Human Trafficking/Sale of Human Being and Exploitation of Human Being”, passed by the National Assembly on 29 February 1996, had a lot of gaps and some provisions were not clearly stated, which led to ineffective enforcement and could not fully prevent human trafficking that involves cross-border and organized crimes, in 1999 the Ministry of Justice in collaboration with the Institute of Japanese Legal Development and with financial support from UNICEF Cambodia, re-drafted this new Law on Suppression of Human Trafficking and Sexual Exploitation.

This new law was formulated in accordance with the principles of the Constitution of the Kingdom of Cambodia and based on some principles of criminal law and other related legal provisions, studies and researches on the laws of other countries, as well as protocols, covenants and conventions concerning women and children that Cambodia has ratified.

This law is detailed and clearer than the 1996 law, thus, it entrusts the law enforcement authorities with more comprehensive power to suppress offenders involved in any act of human trafficking and sexual exploitation.

This law was drafted in consultation with a working group comprised of judges, prosecutors, national and international experts, and checked against the UN Protocol to Prevent, Suppress, and Punish Trafficking in Persons, Especially Women and Children, supplementing the United Nations Convention against Transnational Organized Crime, which Cambodia has ratified. Moreover, it was submitted for discussions and comments in workshops with participation from representatives of state institutions, NGOs, international organizations and representatives of the National Assembly's Legislation and Justice Commission.

The Law on Suppression of Human Trafficking and Sexual Exploitation was adopted by the National Assembly, with 85/85 votes on 20 December 2007, and by the Senate, with 56/56 votes on 18 January 2008.

As a further measure to ensure effective implementation of this law, the Ministry of Justice will disseminate this law among all law enforcement officials and citizens nationwide.

Availing myself of this opportunity, on behalf of the Ministry of Justice and in my own name, I express my most profound thanks to Mr. Yoichi Yamada, international expert from Japan who dedicated his physical, intellectual and spiritual efforts for the development of this important law and to UNICEF for its financial support for the development and printing of this law for distribution among legal and judicial professionals and all law enforcement officials nationwide.

Additionally I heartily commend my colleagues for their tireless serious attention, patience, hard work, physical, intellectual and spiritual efforts in developing this law from the start until we realize these delightful achievements.

I strongly believe that the Law on Suppression of Human Trafficking and Sexual Exploitation will become the most significant tool to combat the acts of human trafficking and sexual exploitation in order to ensure and provide full protection of the rights and freedoms of citizens, as well as to contribute to the strengthening of the rule of law.
